

Essay on Lion

The lion is a wild animal. The jungle is its natural habitat. It is called “the King of the Jungle” because of its massive size and raw power. It has a strong build, four legs, a large head with mane (in males), a tail and two glowing eyes which make it look ferocious. The lion is famous for its roar and hunting ability. It lives in a ‘pride.’ The details on the majestic animal are discussed in this lion essay.

As well as being known as the king of the jungle, the lion is also the world's most dangerous animal. He is the best hunter in the forest. His biological name is Panthera leo, as he is very large and powerful.

A Description of the Body and its abilities

He is a strong animal with large eyes, four legs, a large head, and sharp teeth that help him to hunt and eat his prey. His body is covered with small greyish hair that gives him a good-looking appearance. A cub has dark spots on his body that gradually fade away with age. It has sharp teeth and claws that can be used to capture prey.

Besides the mane of the lion which is that they have long hair around their neck, another very famous part of their bodies is the tail of the lion.

Female lions and lionesses weigh an average of 130 kg and 190 kg, respectively.

What is Their Location?

In most forests, you find lions, but they're sometimes found in zoos, centuries, and circuses as well.

There are around 10 species of lion spread out over the world. South African Lions are the largest and Transvaal Lions are the second largest. Lions were once found in Eurasia, Africa, and North America.

10 Lines on Lion in English

1. The lion belongs to a family of cats.
2. It is a large and strong wild animal.
3. It is one of the strongest animals in the forest.
4. The lion is known as "The King of the Jungle".
5. It is famous for its roar and hunting ability.
6. The lion's body is covered with smooth, small ochre yellow hair.
7. The long hair which covers the lion's neck is called 'mane'.
8. The lion's footprints are called 'pugmarks.'
9. The lion eats flesh and hence, it is a carnivore.
10. Its teeth and claws are very sharp.